

Get Erasmus+ and Join EUROCLIO Professional Development Courses in 2017-2018

Deadline for Erasmus+ Key Action 1 (mobility of individuals) grant is 2 February 2017

Erasmus+ is available for all history, citizenship and heritage educators, but schools have to submit their application to their National Agencies. Individual teachers can not apply. Take the following steps to make it happen!

STEPS TO FOLLOW

1. Contact your national agencies for the application details and obtain the application form and instructions on the Erasmus+ program KA1: Mobility Project through School Education Staff.
2. Talk to your school principal and discuss the procedure of application. Your school will be applying as an organisation and will need to have a "European Development Plan" that includes the EUROCLIO courses.
3. Prepare the application form.
4. Include the EUROCLIO trainings in your catalogue (see below).
5. Submit the application before 2 February 2017.
6. Follow up with the national agency on your application process.
7. Once you get the grant, apply to attend EUROCLIO upcoming courses in 2018.

UPCOMING EUROCLIO COURSES IN 2018

- Strategies for Inclusion - Hamburg (Germany), 19-23 February 2018: Inclusive Education is a fast developing aspect of teaching and learning. One key challenge is how to move from special needs education to inclusive education, while maintaining a sense of equity in the learning outcomes. In partnership with centres of expertise and practitioners, EUROCLIO offers free pedagogical tools, teacher's guidance and examples of practice to offer the history and citizenship field. We are proud to invite history and citizenship educators from all over Europe to take part in an intensive course, full of practical workshops, exciting school visits and engaging discussions on How to make High-Quality History and Citizenship Education more Inclusive?
The course is organised in close partnership with the University of Hamburg.
- Mediterranean Dialogues - Marseille (France), 22-28 April 2018: The Mediterranean has a unique place in world history as a sea that has over time connected and divided a wide variety of cities, peoples and cultures. History, heritage and citizenship educators need to engage with this geography. Educators from Europe, the Middle East and North Africa will have a unique opportunity to engage on a professional level with concrete tools and methods dealing with the challenges and opportunities of the Mediterranean, then and now. Join and celebrate the 25th EUROCLIO Annual Conference Professional Development Training Course in a week full of on-site learning, practical pedagogies and in-depth discussions on historical content.

The course is organised in close partnership with the APHG – Association of teachers of History and geography in France.

Please notify your contact person at the EUROCLIO Secretariat if your school includes the course in their application. We are ready to support you!
